

Kappa Delta Irene Sparks Victor In Sweetheart Stakes As Polls Lure Record Vote

Heavily Backed Fraternity
Combine Entry Maintains Long Lead Throughout Race

Irene Sparks, Ashland, a member of Kappa Delta social sorority, was elected "Campus Sweetheart" in the second annual contest conducted by Sour Mash, campus humor magazine, Ross Chepeleff, editor, announced yesterday.

Of the total number of votes cast in the election, which was held Friday in the University post office, Miss Sparks polled 395, with Marjorie Doyle, Alpha Xi Delta, receiving 236 votes.

Eight candidates were nominated in petitions signed by men students. Other candidates, besides Misses Sparks and Doyle, were Mary Morton Kirkpatrick, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Ennes Brennach, Delta Zeta; Mildred Lemmons, Zeta Tau Alpha; Betty Murphy, Alpha Gamma Delta; Emily Quigley, Chi Omega; and Frances Skinner, Alpha Delta Theta.

Pictures of Miss Sparks will be featured in the April issue of Sour Mash, with a photograph of her being placed on the cover of the book.

Also included in the magazine will be the columns, the "Mash Barrel" and the "Biological Dirge." In addition to these features the monthly gag contest, sponsored by Sour Mash, will appear. This contest is offered in cooperation with a national advertising concern. The deadline for entries in this contest is today.

Billie Holliday, Winchester, also a member of Kappa Delta social sorority, was the winner of last year's "Campus Sweetheart" contest.

UKY ENGINEERS IN CELEBRATION

College Of Engineering To Toast Fiftieth Anniversary
With Class Recess and Dinner On April 30

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the University College of Engineering will be celebrated April 30 with the dismissal of all engineering classes after 10 a. m., an inspection of the new buildings of the University, and a dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock at the Lafayette hotel.

The student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be in charge of arrangements for the anniversary day. President McVey will open the inspection of new campus buildings.

Thomas Cutler, chief of the Kentucky state highway department, who is a graduate of the university, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. Talks also will be given by Gov. A. B. Chandler and Lieut.-Gov. Keen Johnson.

The program will be open to the public and the dinner meeting will be given jointly by the Kentucky Section of Professional Engineers and the Society of Civil Engineers.

Library Receives Book Collection Of Late Professor

A large number of books from the private collection of the late Dr. Granville Terrell, Louisa county, Virginia, has just been received by the library. At the time of his death, Doctor Terrell was professor emeritus of philosophy at the University.

Doctor Terrell gave the library nearly 800 volumes when he left Kentucky in 1929 to make his home in Virginia. Nearly 300 magazines and 670 volumes are included in the new collection.

Doctor Terrell served the University for more than 20 years. He was member of the library committee from the time it was organized in 1909 until he retired from active work in 1929. From 1911 to 1917 he was chairman of the committee.

The books represent a wide range of interest, from readable editions of Scott and Dickens to the classic writers of Greek and Roman literature and the modern philosophers.

THOMAS WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Walter G. Thomas, Ashland, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, has been notified that he has been granted a $500 graduate scholarship at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Thomas is a member of Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity and Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity.

WELCH ELECTED WAA PRESIDENT

Phillips and Bradshaw Voted To Other Offices By Delegates From Eight Other
Kentucky Colleges

Jane Welch, Lexington, junior in the College of Commerce, was elected president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Athletic Associations Saturday following formation of that body of representatives from seven Kentucky colleges meeting in the Woman's building.

Mary Phillips, Georgetown College, was named vice-president, and Mary Bradshaw, University of Louisville, secretary-treasurer.

Delegates were present from Transylvania, Centre, Morehead State Teachers' College, Georgetown and Asbury Colleges, University of Louisville, and the University.

Miss Sarah G. Blanding, dean of women, addressed the group at a luncheon meeting in the Commons on "The Purpose of a State Organization." The Kentucky chapter of W. A. A. was host for tea during the afternoon. Miss Welch, as president of the local chapter, presided at the group's sessions.

Purposes of the association are to form a stronger athletic association in Kentucky colleges that do not have them.

Representatives of Centre College officially invited members of the new body to participate in a tennis tournament at Danville the latter part of this month. Following the business meeting, members of the local W. A. A. chapter gave a tea in the Woman's building in honor of the visitors.

History Honorary To Present Award

Tau Beta, honorary history fraternity, is offering a scholarship award this year for the first time to be given to the student with an outstanding record in the field of European history, according to an announcement made at the meeting April 5.

Mr. Cundiff will offer English S30-1 Business Correspondence the first hour daily, and S30-2 Business Correspondence the third hour daily. It is a three credit professional course and will direct students in the art of preparing various kinds of business communications, the preparation of reports, etc. Students in any college in the University may take the course, but it is not open to freshmen.

Kernel Adjudged Best Newspaper At KIPA Meet

Semi-Annual Meeting Ends
By Presentation Of Spring Awards

Following awarding of a cup to The Kernel, for being adjudged the outstanding college newspaper in Kentucky, at the 10th annual Kentucky Intercollegiate Press association's banquet Friday night at Centre College, Danville, the association elected George Crenshaw, Hopkinsville, junior at Transylvania College, president for the school year 1937-38.

James Jesse, Anchorage, assistant editor of the Centre College Cento, was named vice-president; Ross J. Chepeleff, managing editor of The Kernel, secretary, and William Stevenson, assistant editor of the University of Louisville Cardinal, treasurer.

Thirty-five delegates were present at the banquet Friday night. Lieut.-Gov. Keen Johnson was the principal speaker. He was introduced by Barry Bingham, co-publisher of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. James Hanratty, retiring president of the association, presided at the banquet and the sessions at the two days' meeting.

Judged by members of the editorial staff of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, other awards were as follows:

Editorials—The Kernel; sports—College News, Murray State Teachers College; The Kernel, second; news stories—College News, first; features—University of Louisville Cardinal. These awards were based on papers submitted during the fall.

YM Offers Prize For Best Poster

Any Student Is Eligible To Submit Their Works
In Competition

A cash prize is being offered for the best "Peace Poster," suitable for display in peace education, which can be submitted by any student, to be used during peace week, April 18-24. Posters must consist of an illustration and a message, and can be of any size, with the maximum limit set at 22 inches by 28 inches.

Posters must be submitted by noon, April 19, to Elizabeth Cowan in the Woman's building, and will be judged on the basis of originality of theme, content, and artistic technique.

Further details may be obtained from Elizabeth Cowan, Y. W. C. A. secretary, or Clarence Geiger, chairman of the group which is sponsoring a program of peace education during peace week. The program will include displays, lectures, and a University convocation to be held next week in Memorial hall.

Dr. P. Clyde Accepts Duke U. Position

Will Teach History At Durham, N. C. Beginning
Next September

Dr. Paul H. Clyde, authority on Far Eastern relations and assistant professor of history at the University, has accepted a position in the history department at Duke University, Durham, N. C. He will begin his duties there at the close of the summer sessions at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, where he will teach several courses.

Dr. Clyde, who is well versed in Far Eastern affairs, is the author of "International Rivalries in Manchuria," which he wrote at the conclusion of a trip to Japan and Manchuria, made on a grant made for this purpose by the Carnegie Endowment of New York. In the winter of 1933-34 he again visited Japan, this time on a fellowship granted by the Japanese government for his exemplary work in American relations.

Dr. Clyde has been at the University since 1931. He came here after teaching at Ohio State University for several years. He received his education at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B. C., and at Leland Stanford University, California, where he received his bachelor, master, and doctor's degrees.

Kyian Buyers, Summer Grads Given Notice

The 1937 Kyian will be ready for distribution early in May. Those students who have paid deposits are urged to make final payment at the Kyian office as soon as possible.

All seniors who anticipate summer school graduation, are entitled to a 1937 Kyian in May, upon presentation of the receipt for their senior fees. Therefore, it is urged that they obtain this receipt at once, as distribution of the Kyian will begin early in May.

VISITOR TALKS OF MONASTERIES AND EDUCATION

"The Monastic Complex In Modern Education," Subject Of Talk By Chicago's Liberal Arts Professor

EDUCATIONAL CHAOS
MAY BE REMEDIED

Work Of Group Investigating Trends Of Education Is Described By Speaker

The influence of the monastery on modern education and its functions was the subject of a talk given by Dr. Scott Buchanan, visiting professor of liberal arts at the University of Chicago, yesterday afternoon in Memorial hall.

The modern conception of the monastery is based upon three premises, Doctor Buchanan told his audience. They were romantic, they furnished a means of escape from the realities of life, and they were places of corruption.

Pointing out that the monastery actually gave modern civilization much of its basic groundwork, the speaker declared that our "educational chaos" might be clarified if we applied the monastic principle in our everyday lives.

Doctor Buchanan, who is a member of the committee appointed by Pres. Robert Hutchins, of Chicago, to investigate the functions of higher education, declared that this group was working out the answer to two questions. First, what is the aim of a liberal education? and, second, what is a liberal education? The recovery of European tradition and its transmittance to this country, was an answer to the first question, he said.

"Our work is to correlate and simplify the aims of the liberal arts and to put it into a four-year course which would include the last two years of high school and the first two of college," Doctor Buchanan declared.

"We love and hate, are attracted by, and fear the monastery," he continued. He compared our feeling toward that institution with Freud's theory of mother love, declaring, "we really end up with a feeling of hatred for it."

"Classics," he told his audience, "are books with the greatest number of readers, with the greatest number of possibilities for interpretation, and books which influence the understanding of other books."

The monastery and its culture is mainly responsible for many of our modern institutions. Clocks, hospitals, nationalism and political theory, the library, the factory, and many other factors sprang from the monastic influence, he said.

Doctor Buchanan, who previously has taught at Harvard and at the University of Virginia, was introduced by Prof. G. G. Leckie, acting head of the department of philosophy.

AWES WILL FETE COEDS' MOTHERS

Special May Day Program Of Breakfast, Luncheon, Tea, Banquet, Convocation, and Dance Being Arranged

A special program for the mothers of freshmen girls, under the direction of the Council of Associated Women Students, is being arranged for the annual May Day week-end, May 6 and 7.

Tentative plans include registration for mothers Thursday afternoon at Patterson hall, a banquet in the University Commons Thursday night, a May Day breakfast Friday morning, and the May Day convocation program in Memorial hall. Cwens, women's sophomore honorary, will be in charge of the Friday luncheon in honor of the mothers. The visitors may attend the annual May Day parade in the afternoon, following which the mothers and their daughters will be entertained by Mrs. Frank L. McVey at Maxwell Place.

The mothers will be entertained at dinner Friday night at the sorority houses and residence halls and will be invited to attend the annual SuKy May Day dance at the Alumni gymnasium Friday night. While visiting in Lexington the mothers will be guests of the University and stay at the residence halls.

SERIES OF FORUMS WILL END TONIGHT

"Student Honoraries" will be the topic for discussion at the fourth and last of a series of student forums under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., which will be held at 7:00 o'clock tonight in Patterson hall. James S. Shropshire, graduate manager of student publications, will lead the discussion. "Student Freedom of Opinion" was discussed at the forum Thursday night in the "Y" rooms in the Armory, with W. R. Sutherland, assistant professor of English, leading the group in discussion.

Petitions For Publication Heads Due

Petitions are now due for editor and business manager of The Kernel and the editor of the Kentuckian. Thursday, April 15, is the deadline for these petitions which are to be submitted to Mr. James S. Shropshire, secretary of the board of student publications.

According to Mr. Shropshire, the petition for editor-in-chief of The Kernel must include a recommendation of the executive board, while the Kentuckian editor petition must include recommendation of a business manager.

All petitions must be accompanied by a statement from the registrar's office certifying the fact that the petitioner made a standing during the previous semester.

AMATEUR NITE TO BE APRIL 15

Cups Will Be Awarded To The Boy and Girl Excelling In Dramatics and In The Singing Division

Strollers, student dramatic society, will present its annual Amateur Night at 7:30 o'clock, Thursday, April 15, in Memorial hall. Cups will be awarded the boy and girl adjudged best in the musical division. Fred Pugazzi will be master of ceremonies at the contest, which is held each year to give students interested in dramatics an opportunity to display their talents, and also to gain points for admittance to the dramatic honorary.

Last year's winners of the dramatic contest were Antoinette Bergeron and Don Irvine. Strollers also plan to give a musical comedy later in the semester as their spring production. "Fashion," a melodramatic comedy was the 1936 presentation.

Judges for the Amateur Contest, who have not as yet been selected, will be chosen from Lexingtonians who are prominent in musical and dramatic circles. The night's entertainment is free, and the general public is invited.

UKY RADIO STUDIOS TO SPONSOR WINNERS

Three Men's, Five Women's Groups Compete For Honors

A group of Lexington women students, and Delta Tau Delta fraternity were the winners of the annual Cwens-Omicron Delta Kappa sing, held last night in Memorial hall. In the women's competition Kappa Delta and Kappa Kappa Gamma tied for second place, and in the men's contest Kappa Sigma placed second.

Other groups competing were Patterson hall and Alpha Xi Delta, in the women's group, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the men's group. Judges were Miss Cindra Howard of the Lexington public schools, Miss Lella Mason, superintendent of music at the University Training school, and Dr. Blaine Ewing of the department of English.

The winning men's suit, under the direction of Morton Potter, sang Delta Shelter as their choice for a fraternity song.

The winning men's group was presented a cup by Omicron Delta Kappa, and Cwens presented a similar award to the victors in the women's competition. It is planned to broadcast the two choruses over the University studios of WHAS, Louisville, at an early date.

The competing men's choruses were in formal attire, and the women's groups wore dresses of a uniform color. Last year's winner was Kappa Delta sorority and Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Each chorus sang two verses of the Kentucky Alma Mater song and a song written for their own group. A minimum of 12 and a maximum of 24 members was required.

RHYTHM IS OUR BUSINESS

In eight days an empire might fall, the Supreme Court might be packed and unpacked or vice versa, a weapon such as the sit downs might be evolved to sweep every labor area in the nation, every building on the campus could be burned or razed, or some of the older ones might collapse, the University might receive an appropriation of $4,800,000, a couple could easily fall in love, and, the season being what it is, might marry.

If you care to look back over the eight-day period which ended Saturday at midnight, you will be somewhat surprised to note that six dances of the major type were sponsored by six different campus groups.

Anyway you look at it, six dances in eight days is a pretty well-filled social program for college students. The University might begin an advertising campaign to compete with Palm Beach for this year's crop of debutantes, or to draw some of the movie actors from Palm Springs.

THEM'S FINE WORDS, GOVERNOR

Acting-Gov. Keen Johnson, himself a newspaperman, told delegates to the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press association convention in Danville Friday in effect that new ideas, new political, economic or social theories, no matter how outlandish, strange, or — to use that greatest of all misappellations — radical, should be studied carefully, tolerantly, and intelligently, not superficially examined, then to be cast aside labelled "slush."

These words, particularly because they come from the second highest executive in the state, are hart-warming. They speak well for the future of the Commonwealth, too.

EVALUATING THE HONORARIES

On a campus which possesses so many honorary organizations that three-fourths of them are unknown to the average student, we hear the criticism that many of them are losing sight of their purposes, that they are accomplishing nothing useful, and are existing only to give individuals an opportunity to wear a pin or possess a key. Most of the members of such honoraries never know the purpose of their organization, have no knowledge of what the large national taxes are used for, and feel by the time of graduation, that membership was a useless waste of money.

There are, on the other hand, honoraries which are filling a definite need on the campus, which are giving to their members a sense of cooperation and a chance to do useful work with congenial students, and whose absence would deprive the University of very necessary groups.

Tonight in Patterson hall, all students are being given the opportunity, at the forum sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., to openly discuss the entire question of honoraries, to evaluate the organizations on the campus, and to hear what other students think about the same question. The forum will conclude the series, based on the "Students' Bill of Rights," which have been held weekly on problems of student government, student religion, and student freedom of opinion.

The discussion tonight will, if the students speak frankly and objectively, in all probability be an eye-opener for freshmen, a stimulant to sophomores, and a chance for juniors and seniors to "get plenty off their chests."

CUTTIN' UP THE CAMPUS

with THEO NADELSTEIN

SPEAKING IN SUPERLATIVES:

The most disagreeable surprise is slipping on a banana peel...the most frequent surprise is a "pop" quiz...the most delightful surprise is a sudden kiss...the most irritating surprise is a slap on the back...the most amusing surprise is an elaborate Christmas greeting received on St. Patrick's Day...the most embarrassing surprise is walking in on two love-bug bitten romancers...and the most unsurprising surprise is, "This is so sudden!"

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—the hand you're holding so romantically under the Library table doesn't belong to me!

THEO-RIES:

The worst indictment of STUDENT HONORARIES is the fact that they are most severely criticized by the members, themselves!

Which is an indication of a need for investigation of some kind—or sumpin'!

CAMPUSOUNDS WE COULD DO

WITHOUT:

1. "I made an A—what did you make?"
2. "Aw, stop worrying. They won't campus you. You're only ten minutes late."
3. "What Student Union Building?"
4. "Of course it's true, but I wouldn't discuss it if I were you."
5. "Go right ahead, you too. Don't mind me!"

UNIVERSITY TYPES:

The Campus Bromide—She revels in phrases like, "But where is your school spirit?" and "I don't think people ought to criticize!" everytime a thoughtful student questions a University custom...She's a mixture between a campus sheep, following the herd, and a campus spout, spouting conventional generalities that mean nothing...In arguments she puts a stop to all discussion by the bromidic phrase, "You may be right, but I prefer not to think so..." She's more frightened of a new idea that may shake her prejudices than she is of an earthquake...and is angered by a frank statement which may open her eyes to the fallibility of one of her illusions...Anything which custom has sanctioned is good...anything which looks "different" is bad...and she'll probably go through life blindly happy, unquestioningly acquiescent—and intellectually dead!

Seemingly So....

By ODIS LEE HARRIS

Thursday, April 22, the students of the University of Kentucky will participate in a national peace strike demonstration. The supporters of this strike have never experienced war. It is their desire not to experience it. Before their minds is the pitiful picture of Europe as a result of the World War.

"Devastated Belgium presents a joyless landscape. Cemeteries and monuments preserve the geometry of artillery bombardments, observation posts, and gas-infested zones.

"The sorrowful fields of Flanders remember the war. From the hilltop one sees the hills and valleys where hundreds of thousands of men learned the greatness of oblivion. The tremendous struggle that was unfolded over Flanders' field carried whole towns away, and the naked upturned soil, unadorned by a single house or tree now surrenders itself to the peace-time occupations of man.

"The land that begins at the French frontier is 20 years old. Not a single house or tree has been in existence for more than 20 years, not a single forest or grove.

"Meager trees tremble in the wind that blows from the North Sea, timidly marking the roads they skirt, and the peasant huts receive almost no shade from their foliage.

"Only the cemeteries are monumental. The white English cemeteries, with their upright slabs, the gloomy German cemeteries with rows of black crosses, hundreds of thousands of graves laid out in battle array—columns of those who fell, legions of those who perished, divisions of those who suffered gas poisoning.

"Green crosses more numerous than road signs indicate the direction of the cemeteries. Beautiful monuments and statues of sorrowful women with their hands crossed on their breasts, arches and slabs with names engraved upon them crown their triumphant oblivion.

"To this day craters made by artiller's shells are filled with dark water. For man has not yet redeemed all the land.

"Every year when the peasants start their plowing they find thousands of artillery cartridges, which they pile up in rusty pyramids in front of their houses. For 20 years the earth has been bringing forth this yearly harvest. It seems to have no end."—Vladimir Lidin in Izvestia Moscow.

Five students at the University of Michigan, one of whom was a reporter for The Daily, were arrested for participating in a strike. The reporter, whose bail was paid by the paper, had a by-line story on page 1 about details of the event.

That World

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

KENTUCKY IS ANXIOUS to go "big time" in a dancing way, but there are many things that are going to have to be ironed out before this Blue Grass institution can hope to have dances as impressive as those held by bigger and wealthier schools. The junior prom should have served as an eye-opener to those interested parties.

When asked what sort of a time he had at the dance, one of our senior journalists replied:

"Oh, I had a good time all right. I made a short gain on every play, made my share of the tackles, and did as much blocking as anyone else."

Which was in no mean sense, essentially how the battle raged.

The single file line into the gym stretched intermittently to Limestone as the tenth of a dollar tax was exacted of all who entered, and "all who entered" must have amounted to at least 3,000. If your mother and father were not there they were the only ones. What a mob! And they came from miles around to crowd the junior prom past dancibility.

Limiting of Bids

Just how many bids were faked, no one will ever know. It would be well in the future to limit the bids to the dancable capacity of the gym and stamp the bids in such a way as to make them difficult to imitate as the soldiers did for their civil war this year. We don't have that 10,000 seat field house yet.

It has been rumored that both the President and Dean Jones are not in favor of giving expensive dances. They fear the worst, know we don't have the money, and to those older and saner heads the whole brawl looks silly.

Imagine of paying hundreds of dollars for a "name band" to play for three hours and then taking up the maestro's time signing programs. In the case of Little Jack Little, his band is good only because of his own individual way of playing the piano and singing, yet you and you and you didn't give him time to sing more than half a dozen times.

Hill billies and yokels—never saw a dance band leader before. Your eyes popped out of your heads. Clamoring over the all-too-fragile band stand, tempting it to crash, in your mad desire to see Mr. Little close-up.

Hop, Skip and Jump

Southerners have often been accused of not liking to dance. They are blamed mostly by those northern students who are used to the explaining to the Trask croonerette, the problems of leading a dance band. He talked for hours. Bob Tabeling, Manny Schofman, Bob Mills and Frank Ellis were as gay and as comprehensive in the Centre conservatory as they are back home. Younger Alexander and Johnny Creech found the malds as agreeable and datable as our own couds.

There were other UKsters present, but we could not learn their names.

So there is another problem. We have refugees from the state University.

The Kernel delegates want to extend thanks to those Centre newspapermen who admirably tolerated us and who made the visit a happy memory. We won't forget the hospitality of James "Handshaking" Hanratty, Gilbert Van Sant, Harry Winston, and James Jesse.

Kappa Kappa Gamma tossed their shuffle in the cloisters of the Phoenix. The gals, considering that it was daylight, were eye feasts. The Tappa room downstairs took care of all who were fugitives from the dance floor. The shuffle upstairs was attended by all The "Fine People on the campus.

Alpha Tau Omega put on their show Saturday night. The crowd was the size that is ideal to dance among. Reggis Childs spouted with top-notch interpretations. Any band that can play flutes in a slow tune and then move a fast one with five brass is indeed versatile. Outstanding at this fandango was the considerable number of Avery Brundages. We wonder what Avery would do to a few of the students here who deviate from America's mores. Perhaps to him a local dance would be a paradise for punishment.

You all know the AyTeeOhs had a great dance.

A Complaint:

"Dear Mr. Kerler:

"After all the trouble of getting up a dance, the only comment on the Independent Formal by you in your column was on a sorority girl. At least you could have mentioned the Independents for once. Look us up sometime, we do get around, whether you will admit it or not.

Four Disgusted
Independent Girls."

The Vice
Of the People

By GEORGE KERLER

Three dances within 24 hours were on our week-end social menu. When we plodded from the last one, our stamina, both physical and mental, had long fled. We were tired of hearing "Goon-Goo" and "Boo Hoo." If we ever struggle through another such week-end, we're going to train at Hot Springs the week prior to the activity. By Saturday midnight solitude was our only ambition.

The Kappa Delta cancan was spared our presence. We were in Danville attending a convention in competent Babbitt style, lapel ribbon and all. Centre College was host to Kentucky collegiate pressmen. The powwow brought two worthy results: The Kernel was judged the best college paper in the state and all representatives were invited to the Beta Theta Pi rhythm scrimmage.

The Centre commotion is analogous to our dances, except that the crowd is but half as large as the Alumni gym usually handles. They have, as we have, the annoying jazz babies, those people who suffer spasmodic fits of rhythmic epilepsy. Over in Centre the more civilized gather around the couple in the trance, to stare and then to applaud. Here we have too many feel-fingers to pay respectful attention. If we did this the floor would have the aspect of fifty simultaneous football huddles. They have, as we have, lovers who glide around with closed eyes and open mouths. There were the ever-present arrogant stags still kissing their waymates on the cheek. Those who were not engaged lingered around Clyde Trask's orchestra and leered at the attractive canary. Such pastimes, we guess, exist here at our dances.

A few minutes after entering we encountered a student from UKY. Then another. Perhaps, we reasoned, there might be something to look into. We riveted our vision back into order and began prowling about. Sure enough, there was Betty Bruce Nunn and Jay Lucian giggling at one another. Frank Denton migrated there with Jane Goodwin. Dickie Cooper (ex-Beta) was Mary Louise Henderson's body guard. Merrill Blevins sneaked Betty Bakhaus (who never looked more beautiful) over to Danville, where he tried to escape her Lexington adherents. Martha Ammerman was with a new aspirant, Hilton Wallace. Phidias Bob Allen and George Kast chewed much gum and escorted two Danville dolls, according to Allen and Kast. Johnny Great-house talked desperately with Bakhaus every other moment. Ray Brown and gloomy Jerry Holstien were on foot. KayAys Chris Grinstead and Ben DeHaven were centering attention on all faces pretty. Marty Teal raved about a "new one" to whom he was ready to pledge emotion. PhyTaws were present in force. Garth House was Ah, how crude and ungentelemanly I am! Voluntarily, I will go to one dance a week. When the number exceeds one, I act under the whip of obligation. The Triangle whirl was my dish that week-end. However, I'm not questioning the fact that I was neglectful. An apology can not salve a wound so deep as being snubbed in the "scandal" column. Anyway, it's comforting to know that people like to be mentioned in here. Something I hadn't realized before. Also it's consoling to know that you get around.

I have a post office box.

The power of politics was in evidence during the Campus Sweetheart election. Forty-four ballots were thrown out because they came in wads. Some thieving politicians sneaked into The Kernel press room Thursday night and stole proof sheets of pages one and four, nothing at the time being printed on pages two and three. They tore the ballots out of page four and used them. Laughable stupidity.

Also, the power was exemplified by the backing that Marjorie Doyle received. In a vote bout, minus politics, she would have been a dark horse. With the I. C. giants behind her, she ran Irene Sparks a close race.

Bettye Murphy was the show number. Had she been backed, she might have won breezing. Those voters, who bolted, bet on Murphy. When men bolt, it shows that emotion is stronger than orders. At the ballot tube, many men were emotional.

Next Saturday comes the Chio rodeo in the Alumni swingbox, with Ace Brigade at the baton. Friday afternoon the Chios are staging open house for 30 rushers. Gents who were successful with freshmen last September, but who now have been turned aside, can pour their syrup lines on these potential freshettes.

The Alphasigs are not starting a zoo in their back yard. That six foot alligator in the pit was sent to Skipper Holbert by his brother down in South Carolina. Let's go over, girls, and see it. (unpaid adv.)

Bob Hess, in the robes of success, will arrive in town Saturday. On the following Monday, he will interview "spring graduates who are interested in getting in the 1937 Group Dept. of a life insurance company at a fine salary...Gee, it seems funny, after one year to be on the other side of the fence."

Hess' career has been meteoric. Just one year ago he didn't know what to do with himself. Now he's giving jobs away.

RECORD HEN PASSES
AT AGE OF 7 YEARS

By MARTHA MOORE

Weep for L-168!

She died at the age of eight years Friday at the University poultry farm, where she had been in solitary for the past three weeks.

And oh, how L-168 will be missed—for she was the third highest producing hen on record. During her long life time, L-168 had laid 1,487 eggs, and the highest on record is only 1,516.

For seven years of her life she averaged laying 216 eggs per year, but she had only laid two eggs this season. This hen is considered very old in the poultry world, for an eight-year-old hen is equal to a 90-year-old human.

L-168 had been ill for three weeks, but a post mortem, performed by Dr. J. Holmes Martin and Dr. Floyd Hull revealed nothing in the way of diseases. So her death was evidently due to old age.

The skeleton of this hen will be preserved and measurements taken of the various bones for statistical purposes. The post mortem examination also revealed enough embryonic eggs in this hen to produce as many eggs again as she had already laid.

And although this famous white Leghorn has passed, her memory will be preserved in the form of her skeleton, which will be kept at the University poultry farm for years to come.

Seeing Sport Stuff

By TOM WATKINS
Kernel Sports Editor

SERIOUSLY HAMPERED by the absence of key men, the Wildcat basketball squad has undergone over a week of intensive practice for the annual spring drills. Walter Hodge, Fred Curtis, Joe Hagan, and Bob Davis, all members of the varsity squad and lettermen of the past season, are at present lending their talents to the spring football drills. Lawrence Spears and Sam Duncan, freshman pivot men, are also attending gridiron sessions. In spite of this impediment to the effectiveness of practice, several stirring scrimmages have been staged by Coach Adolph Rupp's proteges, Capt. Rice Walker announced. Bob Mefford, sterling freshman guard, has also been among the absentees, and it is likely that he will not report for the squad next year. However, his place will be amply filled by several other freshman applicants for guard positions, notably Gilbert Jennings and Bernard Harris. At the close of football practice, the gridiron patriots will be available to Coach Rupp, but, as basketball practice will last not more than one week longer than football drills the former suffers a tremendous handicap.

The defeat suffered Friday at the hands of Tennessee by the golf team was a disheartening beginning for the Wildcat mashie wielders, but this ache will no doubt disappear in later matches. Capt. Bobby Thaxton, Jack Mohnney, Bain Smith, and the remainder of the squad need to have more experience as a unit before they equal the feats of some departed golf heroes of late years. Captain Thaxton is the sole letterman of the present squad, all the rest having good reputations as golfers, but not as members of a team.

A Kentucky graduate helped snatch the headlines last week when Arline Judge, divorced wife of Wesley Ruggles, famous motion picture director, and a star in her own right, embarked upon the rolling seas of matrimony with Dan Topping, Broadway playboy. John Simms "Sh-pwreck" Kelly, Kentucky's star halfback of a few years ago, was the best man at the wedding, which came as a surprise to all but a few intimate friends. Kelly, although never an All-American, was one of Kentucky's most famous gridiron heroes, and is part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers' professional football team, in which Topping is his partner.

McVey Authorizes Class Suspension Thursday, April 22

President McVey has authorized a one-hour suspension of classes at 11 a. m. Thursday, April 22, at the request of a group of students who wish to join the nation-wide anti-war movement sponsored by the United Student Peace Committee.

Dr. Thomas Wesley Graham, Oberlin, Ohio, dean of Oberlin College Theological School, will be the principal speaker, and Thomas Spragens, Lebanon, president of the Y. M. C. A., will preside.

Clarence Geiger, junior in the College of Education, is chairman of the campus committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

QUARTERS SELECTED

The Teachers' Placement bureau will have its K. E. A. headquarters in parlor B on the mezzanine floor of the Brown hotel, Louisville, Prof. M. E. Ligon, director of the Placement bureau, said yesterday. All seniors or graduates interested in securing teaching positions are asked to register at any time between Wednesday noon and Saturday noon.

KAMPUS KERNELS

The actives of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary, will meet at 5 p. m. Wednesday, April 14, in the Woman's building, to discuss initiation plans.

The Y. W. C. A. Social Service group will meet at 3 p. m. Wednesday, April 14, in the Woman's building.

The World Fellowship group of the Y. W. C. A. will hold a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Woman's building.

Mrs. G. E. Smith will present an interpretation and representation of "The Wingless Victory," by Maxwell Anderson, before members of the Y. W. C. A. Freshman group at 3 p. m. on Thursday, April 15, in the Woman's building. All freshman members of the Y. W. C. A. are invited to come.

KERCHEVAL SPEAKS TO OPTIMIST CLUB

Ralph Kercheval, former University star football player and now a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was the guest speaker of the Optimist club luncheon meeting Friday at the Lafayette hotel.

Kercheval, the only professional who has kicked a football 91 yards in the air, was interviewed by Neville Dunn and introduced by Edward Meyer, program chairman.

Expressing a belief that the spirit of cooperation was as great in professional as college football, Kercheval declared that any national league team could defeat the best college team in the country.

BERT COMBS AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP BONUS

Bert Combs, senior in the College of Law, was the recipient of a $25 prize given by Judge Robert Winn, Mt. Sterling, which was awarded Wednesday morning at a convocation of law students in Memorial hall.
